

User Stories

Need to have (high priority):

1. As an authenticated user, in order to track the progress of my habits, I can see my progress in the calendar section in the mobile app.
2. As an authenticated user, in order to “keep my streak”, I can use the buffer function in the calendar to fill in the missed streak without penalty.
3. As an authenticated user, in order to earn achievement badges, I can complete the tasks associated with a certain achievement.
4. As an authenticated user, in order to view my achievement badges, I can see a list of badges, some of which I have collected, and I can click on them for more information.
5. As an authenticated user, in order to redeem my achievement points, I can access the redeem shop and spend my points on rewards.
6. As an authenticated user, in order to track my behavior, I can create a habit customized by date, duration, and more.
7. As an authenticated user, in order to get more details on my habits, I can see details after clicking the habit in the tracker dashboard.

Nice to have (low priority):

1. As an authenticated user, in order to create a group chat, I can choose to create or join groups with other users who have similar interests, habits, or that the users are engaged in certain activities together (e.g. class projects).
2. As an authenticated user, in order to collaborate with a group on a project or assignment, I can create a focus session within the group
